

THE BOURBON NEWS.

SEMI-WEEKLY.

VOL. I.

PARIS, BOURBON COUNTY, KENTUCKY: FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 1882.

NO. 30.

The new histories are as pretty as bran new counterfeit dollars.

LEXINGTON is agonizing over four bright bran new cases of small-pox.

Several persons have taken Oscar Burbridge's picture for Craddock's.

The City School gave a public and enjoyable entertainment Wednesday.

"What shall the harvest be?" Army worm hash, rust, straw and two dollars a day.

Auction at H. T. Patton's General store to-morrow, commencing at 10 and 2 o'clock.

Hogs are in big demand now to either borrow or rent, for the destruction of the army worms.

J. O. MILLER, republican, was elected by one majority, over Clay McKee, Police Judge of Mt. Sterling.

The Bourbon Female College entertainment at Odd Fellows' Hall, Wednesday night, was well attended.

ROGER O'CONNOR got bull-dozed out of a pasture the other day, in double-quick time. The calf thought he was a book agent.

Two knife-polishing thieves are on the road. The Mt. Sterling Sentinel says that they stole a $25 set of pearl-handled knives from Mrs. Thos. Turner.

The room over J. L. Taylor & Co.'s recently occupied by Prof. W. H. Lockhart as a school room, has been secured by the telephone company, for the exchange.

W. A. Moore, Esq. of Midway, has been smitten with paralysis of the face, which is drawn on one side, and one eye will not close, except by use of the finger.

JIM MITCHELL, col'd, was arrested in Montgomery county Wednesday, for outraging the person of a Mrs. Robt. Thomas, wife of a tobacco man on Smith Jndy's farm.

FOR SALE—A black American eagle, is kind and gentle, in perfect health, and sound as a dollar. Will take $5, or will exchange it for a Bourbon history. Apply at this office.

BANCROFT was forty-eight years in writing the history of the United States, yet he didn't make half such a book as our new history which was written and published in forty-eight days.

O. A. GILMAN started a brigade of eight blue-grass seed stripping machines into the pastures last Tuesday. The crop is a good one, and the product is now being sold here at 40 cents per bushel.

SMITH KENNEY denies that three children were born unto him before his marriage, as alleged by the new history. He's not that kind of a rushing fellow. One copy of the valuable book is all he wants.

JULY 1st is nearly here, and the News needs money. Every subscriber who is not paid up in advance, will please settle up at once. This is not given as a history joke, or an army worm fact. It is simply business.

JIM HEFLIN, Deputy U. S. Marshal, passed down the road to Maysville Wednesday, returning to Eastern Kentucky with twenty-eight witnesses, with whom he has been prosecuting twelve moonshiners at Frankfort.

BILLY SHAW says it is a mistake about himself being boomed out of $100 on account of the history, and says the history didn't cost him a penny. If this be true, many sorrowing friends would like to know how he got that picture?

The inordinate pride and vanity of man should not permit him to be dunned. Here's a little pointer for several hundred proud and chivalrous Kentuckians whose names are recorded in the tally book of the News office.

To-morrow the old soldiers will have their annual meeting at the Bourbon House. Mrs. Turney is handsomely decorating the dining hall, and other extended preparations for the reception of the veteran guests are being made.

A bon-ton wedding took place here yesterday in colored society. The parties to the affair were Charles H. Smith, of Dayton, Ohio, and Miss Lillie T. Stewart, of this city. The Rev. G. W. Hutton, of Lexington, was the officiating minister.

RICHARD EVANS, of Newtown, Scott county, died Wednesday of wounds received from Lem Offutt last fall. Evans afterwards partly recovered, and shot Offutt dead in his tracks on their first meeting. Evans' remains were buried here yesterday.

ALLEN BASHFORD and a lady friend, while going to the Millersburg hop Tuesday night, were thrown out into the pike near the railroad crossing below Porter's Station, on account of the horse taking fright at meeting a freight train and turning the buggy over.

H. M. RUCKER has resigned the office of cashier of the Deposit Bank. It is rumored that John Northcott will be elected in his place.

MISS MAGGIE MURRAY was voted the gold watch at the picnic yesterday. The amount of money she raised was $725, and that of her opponent, $375.50. The young folks continued their dance last night at the Bourbon House.

It is only before he is twenty-five that a man likes to be told that he is growing old very fast. After that a polite lie about his not having changed a bit in ten years works the same as it does to smooth a cat the obviously natural way of the fur.

KIRBY SMITH, at Morning Glory, Nicholas county, killed a black snake eleven feet long, which had just swallowed three young squirrels and a toad. If Smith was a small man and in delicate health, we would have no hesitancy in calling him a liar.

GREEN KELLER, of this city, has made another pass at, and obtained the Carlisle Mercury, for the sum of $2,500 cash. The Transfer will be made by the attorneys of both parties, and possession will be given on the 28th inst. L. S. Benjamin, of the Citizen office, has been engaged as foreman for Mr. Keller.

The largest and finest distillery of the State—that of E. H. Taylor, at Frankfort, burned down Wednesday night. The cause of the fire was lightning, which struck the whisky-room about eight o'clock. The cost of the building was $80,000. Two men were knocked senseless in the office, by the shock.

Among the number of bridal parties who have left our depot recently, an old family servant was present to bid her young "missus" good-bye. As she stoutly grasped and held the hands of the happy twain, she very earnestly remarked: "Good-by missus—good-bye boss. Boss, fetch her back in three weeks jess as you toted her away."

DURING the heavy storm that prevailed Tuesday night, a cabin on the K. C. extension six miles beyond Winchester was washed away, and eleven inmates—ten men and a woman, were all drowned and washed away. Three of the bodies have been found, and the coroner of the county has held an inquest on the bodies. The cabin was near the banks of a small creek that emptied into the Kentucky river. The fall of water measured six inches in a tub left out in the yard of a neighbor to the unfortunates, and the rain was a general one for that section, and not a water-spout as was reported.

The "La-de-dah" walk has struck our town. The essentials to its agonizing kangaroo bouncings are: a full skirt cut short behind, a pillow for a panier, the toes turned inward, the heels pointed outward, the back bowed like a wagon wheel, and ten cents worth of chewing gum in the mouth. If this doesn't catch one of those gander-necked, shave-headed, bob-tailed, bow-legged, pigeon-toed, coconut-skulled individuals who look like picked ganders with their tails pulled out, then go home and daub on paint and powder until they tumble. Tumble? Well, I should make my mouth resemble a cupboard of tea-cups!

ON Wednesday afternoon when the goddess of day commenced to retire into the shades of evening for a short season of peaceful slumber, she gracefully kicked off her golden slippers and hung them on the pinnacle of our court-house, doffed her soft and velvety mantle of the seven rainbow hues, and carelessly slung it upon the tardy clouds lingering hard-by to see her strip; then lit her calcium lights of gorgeous glow and soothing effulgence that clothed all nature in a hallowed misty, fairy dream—revealed her naked, symmetrical form to the vulgar gaze of humanity, while editors, poets and artists looked on with rapturous gaze, gave their hearts of innocence and bounteous love to Nature's real, perfect artist.

T. W. MCCLINTOCK, a book-agent from Cincinnati, dropped into the News sanctum yesterday morning. He passed by the sentry at the door, under the guise a minister of the gospel having something good for our inside. After taking a seat near our desk and treating us to a clear Havannah, he paved the way carefully by endorsing all our kicks against the new history swindle, and finally let it be known that he was agent for a valuable assortment of books. We at once ordered our devil out to give the alarm to Dr. Keller, Judge Turney and the balance of the mob, but before they arrived with their rope, the wild-eyed man of sorrows broke from our grasp and escaped out of the back door and through the alley by Brent's ware-rooms. In consequence of the dire disappointment of the mob, we hereby offer ten new histories of Bourbon, for his body dead or alive, to be delivered at this office.

SOCIETY SCINTILLATIONS.

THE WALLER-FERGUSON NUPTIALS.

The elite of the Bluegrass society was brought out last Tuesday, by the marriage of Thos. H. Waller, of Cincinnati, to Miss Maggie, daughter of James W. Ferguson, of this county. The marriage took place at the Christian Church, at 1:30, p. m. Elder J. S. Sweeney, officiating. The maids of honor were Misses Cora South and Mary Ireland, of this city. The attendants were J. H. Johnson, of Cincinnati, and Miss Laura Alexander, of Paris; Lun Ferguson and Miss Maggie Clay, Paris; John Sullivan, Covington, and Katie McClelland, Millersburg; Jas. McClintock and Miss Annie Fithian, Paris; Jas. O. Wiggins, Covington, and Miss Madge Whitney, Mt. Sterling. Ushers: T. C. Williams, John Davis, Albert Adair, and Frank Clay, Paris; Organist, Prof. A. M. Gutzeit.

The bride's dress, fashioned by that fastidious modiste, Madam Webbe, at the head of the mantau department of W. H. Ingels & Co., of this city, was a gorgeous cream satin and moire silk, elaborately trimmed with pearl passamenterie, elegant pearl ornaments and ducless lace, skirt cut decollete en-train—train 140 inches in length, (too long to switch,) and edged with French ruche of satin, unique and artistic in arrangement. The front was a non-solvable puzzle of puffed satin, lace and pearls. Basque pointed in front and back, and frescoed with pearl ornaments. Neck cut heart-shaped with a profusion of ducless lace. Elbow sleeves with same trimming. The handsome bride whose dress Worth would scrutinize with a jealous eye, was, with the exception of her train, encased in a veil of snowy whiteness as thin and gauzy as a Fairy's dream, floating backward from an orange wreath. In lieu of the bouquet of the primeval days of the century, the bride and maids carried elegant white satin hand-painted satchels to relieve the loneliness of their hands. The bride's diamond jewels were in strict keeping with the balance of her trousseau, in gorgeousness.

Miss South wore white mull and lace, with pearl ornaments; Miss Ireland, pink satin, and nun's veiling, with pearls; Miss Alexander, white mull and point lace, diamonds; Miss Clay, white mull and Valenciennes lace, diamonds; Miss McClelland, pink satin and lace, diamonds; Miss Whitney, pink satin and lace, diamonds; Miss Fithian, white mull and lace, diamonds.

The groom's gift was solitaire ear-drops; J. W. Ferguson, father of the bride, 400 acres of bluegrass land, and a check for $5,000.—equivalent to $50,000; other gifts numbering forty pieces in way of bridal-gift heterogeneousness including a diamond pin, and several elegant pieces of table silver, were presented by friends and relatives.

The church was exquisitely decorated by James Hinton, our local florist. Floral gates spanned the aisle in front of an arch surmounted by two white natural doves, beneath whose beaks pendant the floral monogram of the bride and groom floated in mid air, while the marriage bell of roses of all the delicate hues, and clapper of mammoth lilies swung beneath the arch. On either side of the pulpit, in artistic horticultural array, were to be seen immense palms, cactuses of varied species, fuschias, roses, geraniums by families, and tropical plants rich and rare, and in wholesale display.

A marquee of brown muslin waried off the laughing sunbeams that were wont to toy with the galaxy of splendor that ushered forth from the six elegant hacks of the hymenial avalanche, and even a spread of the same protected the soft white kid footsteps and flowing trains from terra firma's despoiling contact.

After the blessings of the minister were pronounced, and a beautiful bouquet presented, typical of the purity of his regards, the brigade of hacks hurried away to the 3 o'clock North-bound train, for Cincinnati, where, at 337 West 4th St., a most elegant suite of rooms await them at Mrs. "Puss" Kenney's recently established bon-ton boarding house.

The High Bridge Camp Meeting begins July 13th and continues until the 21st.

Rev. E. O. Guerrant closed his meeting at Hazel Green with forty-eight additions.

John Bedford, Sr., near Millersburg, says the army worms won't eat hemp or potatoes.

John T. Prewitt and Miss Nona Wilson, of Montgomery county, were quietly married in New York Tuesday.

Miss A. H. Redmon got thrown from a horse and severely jarred, the other evening while horse-back riding on our streets.

The stormy days have come—The cyclonic of the year; A little uncertain for the picnic bum, And slightly dangerous to ride with your dear.

The annual opening ball at the Arlington House, Blue Licks, will be held on Tuesday night next. Preparations are being made for a large attendance.

A Brooklyn girl who contemplated suicide wrote a note to her parents, beginning, "I take pleasure in writing these few lines to you."

Miss Maggie Scott, daughter of Joe Scott, was presented with a gold dollar, for having the best report in the city school. She was 100 in most of her studies.

Billy Barnes, formerly of Mt. Sterling, but now of St. Louis, won $5,000 on the races there one day last week. His friends were banqueted in royal style over the happy tip.

"How in the h—l can a man dance without whiskey," said a lunatic to a stranger, when asked why he did not take part in a dance down at the Anchorage Insane Asylum, the other day.

Back-hair bangs have made their disgusting advent into civilized Kentucky society. This indeed bangs the d—l, and it is about time for parents to revive that old style of banging with a board, and the subject hanging over the knees like a half-closed jack-knife.

The Trader, Turfman, Farmer and Sportsman.

Strayed:—A dark red-roan heifer weighing about 650 pounds. Any information of her will be thankfully received, by Charlie Donnell, near Carlisle.

Will Taylor stopped cutting his barley on account of the army worms. He estimates that where he would have had 4,000 bushels, he won't save 500.

McInture & Swiney, of this city, have sold a yearling colt, a full brother to their celebrated Lizzie S., to Lorillard, of England, for $5,000, and have the money in the bank to their credit.

The army worm is sweeping things before it in Mason county, and the farmers are fighting it with sword, fire, water, clubs and profanity. A passenger train is said to have been stopped by them near Marshall's Station.

We heard a Lexington cattle trader say Wednesday, that he shipped a load of heifers to Covington two weeks ago, and lost money. Last week he bought a car load in Covington and sold them at Lexington court and made money. He will next ship to Mt. Sterling.

The 4th of July will be celebrated at Falmouth, by a series of trotting races. The first race, purse $100, $50 to first, $30 second, and $10 to third, open to all horses owned or handled in Pendleton county on or before June 1st, '82. The second race, free for all, purse $300; $150 for the first, $80 for the second, and $30 for the third. Third race, purse $200—$120 to first, $60 to second, and $20 to third; open to all horses that have never trotted better than three minutes.

Hashualities.

Two wild cats were killed in Mason county a few days since.

A man named C. C. Cram, is County Attorney of Grant county. He is also editor of the Williams-town Courier.

James Huff and Henry Kimbrough, have leased the well-known and newly refitted Kimbrough House, and will take possession on July 1st. Mr. Huff is not a stranger at the hotel business he having, successfully run the St. Cloud several years ago, and "Kim", too, was raised right up at the business. We predict for them a popular run of trade.

A DUEL was fought near New Orleans last Wednesday between Maj. A. Burke, of the Times-Democrat, and Mr. C. H. Parker, editor of the Picayune. At the fifth round Maj. Burke was shot in both legs, but not seriously wounded.

The Chicago Tribune says Kentucky is beginning to lament that to her boast of the fairest women, the fastest horses, and the finest whisky she may add that she has more and longer school commencements and less education than any other state in the whole of the whole union. This is official.
